Tony Abbott defends the Coalition's promise to scrap the Marine Parks process by saying the fishing community depends on the sea and will therefore protect it.

I am so glad to know that we, the human race, have suddenly grown so sensible, and sensitive to the overall good as opposed to individual greed. Now that we have changed so dramatically, there should be no need for laws of any sort. We will all act in the right way with no restrictions. If we need no laws, surely we need no politicians. Hallelujah!!!!
